Anxiety ends Romulus engine plant spared, merger planned for 1995

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

While breathing a heavy sigh of relief that the Romulus General Motors Engine Plant—the number-one city taxpayer—was not axed Monday, Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally expressed compassion for residents and political leaders in Flint and Ypsilanti.

The emotions that erupted in Romulus City Hall Monday were the climax of a sleepless weekend, McAnally said, after being warned Friday that she would receive a call Monday regarding the fate of General Motors facilities in Michigan.

The pending call, "Ruined my weekend and kept me on the edge of my chair most of (Monday) morning," the mayor explained, "and the anxiety increased when I learned that the call would come from GM's corporate office, not a regional one."

McAnally said, "My heart about stopped" upon hearing the news of the closing of the Willow Run and Flint plants within several years.

"While the announced good fortunes for the Romulus plant is getting little (early) media play, the merging of the Flint plant with the Romulus division in 1995 is a terrible blow to Flint and its young first term Mayor Woodrow Stanley," she said.

In addition, several Romulus City Hall employees have spouses or other family members hurt by the pending plant closings.

McAnally said, "I expect GM officials will be visiting us shortly and seeking additional help from the Romulus community. I would urge you to work with them."

The Romulus GM plant is located on 371.69 acres of land in the city, with about one-quarter of it still undeveloped, a city official said. The assessed value of the plant in Romulus in 1991 was $116,312,000.

The plant pays more than $5.2 million in taxes locally with $3.6 million going to the school district, $832,455 to the city and $785,515 to Wayne County.

"I'm encouraged when GM tells me that at peak production the merged Romulus engine plant will be producing 5,000 engines a day. They also expressed great interest in the fact that the building of manufactured homes in Romulus will be in full swing by the time of the engine plant turnover," McAnally told members of city council Monday night.

GM officials revealed the two key reasons behind selecting Romulus over Flint were the age of the plant and its work force.

The Flint plant went on line in 1954, while the Romulus plant was constructed in 1979. Steven Gaut, public affairs manager for GM power-train division, said also that the Romulus plant had more unused space available for the consolidation in 1995.

McAnally stressed the merging of engine plants will not create new jobs, but it may mean that some Flint employees may not opt to move to this area in 1995 and thus more jobs could actually open up for Romulus area residents.

The future of Bishop Airport in Flint might also impact Romulus, McAnally noted.

Like Metro Airport here, Bishop Airport is expanding and the closings have Genesee County Commissioner Arthur Busch extremely angry.

He charges that GM encouraged the airport expansion with public money. "While they (GM) never promised they would be using it, they sat on boards with us and lead us to believe they would be part of our future."

Romulus Chamber of Commerce President Dennis Worsley reminded chamber members that a tour of the local GM plant will be conducted on March 17—along with the regular monthly chamber luncheon.

Worsley said chamber members were like most of the community in that they too learned the news of the closing from television coverage.

"We are happy that GM is staying in Romulus," Worsley said, "and are working diligently to keep all existing industry here."

In conjunction with that effort, Worsley said, the chamber is conducting a luncheon for the 14-15 Romulus business and industries that will be displaced by the expansion of Metro Airport.

"We have invited those businesses impacted by the expansion to come to the Holiday Inn and meet with Mayor Beverly McAnally and other city officials to learn the sites of alternate industrial locations within the city."

"Also on hand will be local bank officials to discuss current loan possibilities, county and airport authorities and local State Rep. James Kosteva," Worsley added.

Hunt for family brings new career goals

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Linda Huffaker hunted for her "real" family for 15 years.

Then suddenly, on New Years Eve 1991, she gained information that led to a sudden and intensive 25-day telephone hunt that located her brothers and sisters in Kentucky and Ohio.

Linda now wants to use that experience to help others in similar circumstances by becoming a private investigator specializing in adoption family searches.

While Linda grew up as a child in the Garden City area, she moved to Belleville as a 15-year-old.

It was about that time she discovered the first links to her birth family, while searching through her adoptive father's records. She discovered that her birth family name was Calleja.

The early record check revealed to her that her full birth name was Linda Carol Calleja and that it switched to Linda Carroll-Sue Morris after her adoption by an area couple, Earl and Sue Morris.

As a struggling teenager, her limited investigative instincts lead her only to calling every Calleja family she could find in the area phone books.

Finally in 1980 she was able to get a small amount of information from the Wayne County Probate Court that linked her to an Irish-German heritage and the fact she had a coal miner grandfather in the Kentucky area.

She also was given a photo dated June 1962 that pictured her at 11 months with a sister (she later identified as Diane) at the age of 23 months.

Her hunt for her real family was fragmentary at that time, Huffaker said, because her adoptive mother didn't want her to continue the search.

Her newly-found brother, Bobby Joe, now 38, told her that he attempted to kidnap her from her adoptive family back in the early '60s. At that time he was living in Detroit and working for Ford Motor Co.

He found out where Huffaker was living, but her adoptive mother told him on two separate occasions that she had just disappeared. Actually, Huffaker said, she had been placed briefly in a boarding home—when her adoptive mother heard the rumor that her real family was seeking to get her back.

"Since being rejoined as a family," Huffaker said, "I learned that Bobby and I lived about 5 miles apart for several years, when I lived in Belleville, but I never knew him or saw him at that time."

Her search was sporadic until after her marriage to Grant Huffaker in 1983. He began to assist her in her hunt for her family by searching through numerous state phone books for the family name of Calleja.

"Scores of calls to such families over the next few months got me nowhere," she said. "Every once in a while I would think that I was finally getting on the right path—but would then always hit a brick wall."

After struggling for three months on the phone search, Huffaker said she became fully discouraged and quit.

In 1985 her adoptive mother died and Huffaker went back to Probate Court and obtained an official packet with a great deal of informational material deleted.

One of the court items was a letter from her real mother to the court stating that she could not afford to raise two children. Her real mother said she was keeping her older daughter, but felt that the lifestyle of the prospective adoptive parents would better fit Huffaker's needs.

Huffaker said she also learned that she had been born in Detroit.

Additional stress was added to her life as she and her husband were divorced. They remarried late in 1987 and resumed her family search in the Detroit Maltese neighborhoods.

She talked to numerous persons in those neighborhoods, but once again struck out as no one could definitely remember her family.

"This past New Years Eve," Huffaker said, "I found many of my 'lost' family papers and began putting them in chronological order. I came across a lawyer's name on a bill for di-voice papers filed in Oakland County."

Huffaker was then led to Wayne County Vital Records offices and from a marriage application, she learned the names of her real mother (and the date of her mother's birth), grandmother and grandfather. She also learned that the family resided in Martin, Ky.

Using earlier information about her grandfather working as a coal miner, Huffaker called a phone supervisor in Kentucky and began checking out coal mining area phone numbers.

She failed to learn anything new from the Coal Mining Association—but then continued in her hunt for Ousley family members (her mother's maiden name) via Floyd County (Kentucky) telephone officials.

She got a little discouraged when she found out there were 200 Ousley's in the county. But acting on a hunch, feeling that Martin was probably still today similar to a "Dukes of Hazzard" community, Huffaker called the local police department.

Huffaker said she was first given a telephone number of a cousin Frankie and from there it was "telephone heaven" and calls burned the wires back and forth from Michigan to Kentucky.

First she learned that her mother had died. Then she learned the names of her siblings.

Huffaker said she was too excited to sleep that night, "I just wanted to call the world and scream."

In addition to Bobby Joe and Debbie, Huffaker found

Cory school project resolved

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A question regarding the size of water main pipes and a fire hydrant at the Cory Elementary School construction site has been settled according to Keith W. Risdon, consulting engineer for the city of Romulus.

Risdon's official report to Mayor Beverly McAnally regarding the school site improvements was released to the public Monday evening.

In his report, Risdon explained that he was involved in the issue on behalf of the city because of the "apparent lack of communication on those job sites...and that the responsibility for some of their problems was going to be directed toward the city."

"There was also an attempt to have the city participate in the remedy financially," he said.

He explained that the minimum 6-inch water main line extension required for a planned fire hydrant by Cory

Elementary School seemed in order, until it was discovered that the existing water line was 3 inches instead of 6 inches.

At a December meeting the officials from the Romulus Department of Public Works ordered that the 3-inch water line be replaced by an 8-inch water line. The construction managers asked the city to participate in the cost of the new line.

Men robbed at motels

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A 42-year-old Detroit man got more than he bargained for when he picked up a would-be prostitute Wednesday night.

The man, taken to Michigan Avenue motel, was beaten and robbed by two men who later invaded the apartment, according to police reports.

The man told police that he picked up the woman on Michigan Avenue around 3:30 a.m. and she invited him to a room at a nearby motel. Shortly after the couple entered the room, two men knocked at the door and entered the room when the victim answered.

The intruders ordered their victim to hand over his wallet and other valuables. When the man hesitated, one of the thugs grabbed a bottle, broke it, and placed the sharp edge of the victim's throat.

The robbers took their victim's valuables, house keys and a sweater, then slapped their victim several times in the face before he was permitted to leave the motel.

The victim reported the incident to police, who are investigating.

In an unrelated incident, two Westland men were robbed in a motel parking lot on Michigan Avenue.

The victims told police that three men approached their car, and one implied he had a weapon. The trio then demanded that their victims give up their money and jewelry or they would be shot.

According to the police report, the victims surrendered three gold rings, two rope chains, one Detroit Lions charm and a watch.

The men then escaped.

However, Dearborn police later stopped a vehicle at a nearby gas station and, after questioning them, arrested them on suspicion of armed robbery.

Police said the victims later identified the men as those who had earlier robbed them.

Police would not release the names of the suspects, pending their arraignment in district court.

A 21-year-old Westland man told Inkster police that he was robbed by a gunman who approached him in party store parking lot in the 3900 block of Middlebelt Road.

Daniel Dobbs told police that a man came up to him, produced "some unknown type of weapon", then proceeded to go through the victim's pocket. The robber escaped with $30.

Teen sentenced in traffic death

David White, 19, of Romulus has been sentenced from two to 15 years in state prison for his part in the motorcycle-bicycle death of a 10-year-old boy.

White was sentenced by Recorder's Court Judge Dominick Carnovale for the Aug. 23, 1991 death of bicyclist Tim Farkas.

Prosecutors claimed White was speeding "recklessly" on his motorcycle on Leroy Street, when it collided with the young biker. The victim, who was thrown into the air, was killed instantly, police reported.

Both White and the victim were residents of the same city subdivision.

Superintendent will appear on TV show

Romulus Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Bedell will appear on a "Class of '95" town meeting TV show on March 4.

The program that will air on WJBK-TV 2 and WTVS/Channel 56 will discuss the following topics:

- What is the purpose of school?
- Are we ready for a new approach to career training?
- What are the financial and philosophical costs?

The "Class of '95" program is in its second of five years and is examining the quality of education for students from eighth grade through high school.

Citizen scares away bandit

A private citizen, who called out to a would-be bandit last Saturday, apparently saved a local restaurant customer from being robbed.

The intended victim, a 68-year-old male, told police he was walking to his car parked in a lot outside a restaurant at the corner of Wayne and Wick Roads, when a tall black male wearing a grey-hooded sweatshirt pointed a long-barreled handgun at him and demanded "I want your money or you'll get hurt."

It was at this moment, the victim said, that the private citizen came around the corner of the restaurant and called out, "What's going on there."

The bandit—who used the hood to cover his face—turned and then quickly fled without taking any money.

Century old home offered to Romulus

A two-story home that is reported to be more than 100 years old, known as one of the former McBride homes, has been offered to the city of Romulus.

The home at 36664 Goddard Road is owned by Ron Brugger and has been offered free to the city, if it would assume the cost of moving it to a different location.

Mayor Beverly McAnally asked the local historical commission to render an opinion regarding the offer.

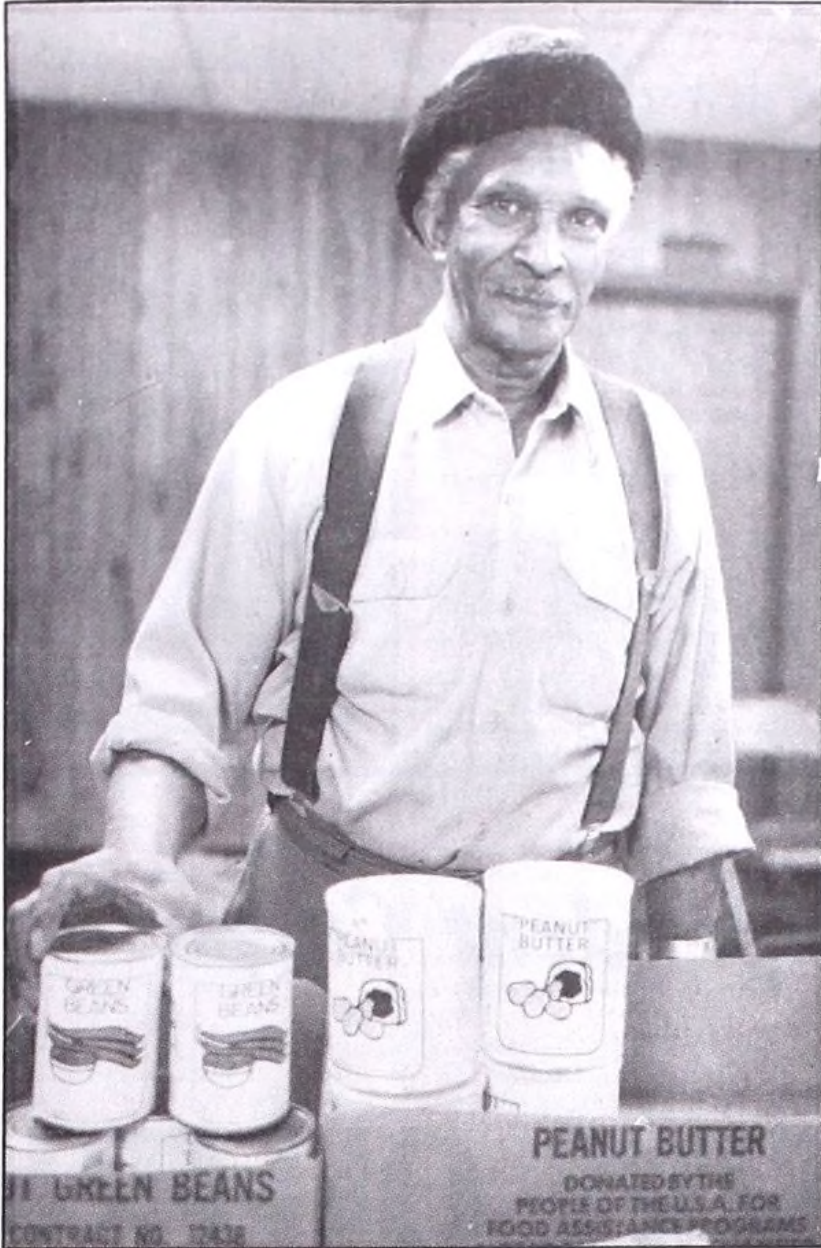

The minutes of a recent historical commission meeting revealed that the group is going on record opposed to the city accepting the home, also identified as a former Seestedt house, as members didn't feel the house fit the historical building requirements and is neither historically nor architecturally significant.

McAnally said it was also reported the home might not be sturdy enough to sustain a move.

The mayor said she is willing to meet with Brugger on the matter.

Grant hearings slated March 9

A public hearing on the 1992 Community Block Grants is planned for 6 p.m. March 9, Mayor Beverly McAnally revealed Monday night. The city has been notified that the 1992 budget calls for a budget of $102,800.

For 81 years Eddie Beenum of Romulus has worked hard to serve his fellow man.

Beanum has been a resident of Romulus since 1942 and he and his wife, Lydia, have proudly battled hard to rear and educate their seven children. He also instilled in them an equal pride in their community.

Five of his children still live in the general area, one in Romulus, one in Canton Township, two in Inkster and another in Detroit.

Two children have left the area and now live in Colorado and California.

Beanum, who has worked in the past as custodian of Romulus High School, feels recent generations of children have been "pampered...and given too much."

He feels that young people today need to learn the discipline he tried to instill in his children and nine grandchildren.

After serving with the U.S. Navy in World War II, Beanum returned in 1945 and became the first black Democrat to serve as Romulus Township Trustee eight years later.

He served as president of the local National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in the late 1940s and early 1950s. He also is a member of the First Baptist Church of Romulus, where he has served as a deacon for 25 years.

Beanum considers his work in the church the most important he is now engaged in. "I put no work higher than that with the church," he said.

Stolen jeep recovered, suspect apprehended

Quick action by Romulus police Monday morning resulted in the arrest of a man and the recovery of a stolen 1991 Jeep Cherokee.

Police said they were notified of the theft of the vehicle from the driveway of a home in the 16000 block of Farnum Street about 5:30 a.m. Shortly after police were notified of the theft, uniform officers spotted the suspect vehicle at Eureka and Inkster Roads.

After a brief pursuit by police officers, the defendant, Andrew J. Heninburg, 19, of Romulus was arrested and charged with unlawfully driving away an auto. He was remanded to the Wayne County Jail in lieu of $10,000 cash bail.

The jeep was recovered.

Wayne Krupin of Barton Malow (construction managers for the school district) that no city funds were available for the proposed construction work.

Risdon said a follow-up meeting was staged Jan. 27, when Krupin was asked if he was aware of a problem with the storm sewer connection at the County Drain on the Romulus High School site.

It was reported at that time the proposed storm outlet was 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 feet higher than the proposed on-site system. This could lead to having two feet of standing water in the retention ponds at the school—a situation that could lead to stagnant water or worse occurring there, he said.

Risdon told project engineer Chuck Olson he was extremely upset with the problems occurring on the school projects and the misdirection of energies and information.

He also stated there appeared to be no interest on behalf of Joel Carr, assistant superintendent for finance and operations for the Romulus School District, as to what caused these problems.

Risdon also complained with two additional school projects about to start, he would expect that all parties would agree to verify conditions prior to starting. "I feel this fell on deaf ears, Risdon said.

"I am still perceived as the 'bad guy' in this situation," Risdon said. "And I have no problem with that."

In his report Risdon stated, "I only hope that the Romulus school personnel understand that I do have an interest in their projects and that my concern is to see that the work involving the city is done correctly, cost effectively and timely."

Risdon said Tuesday that he apparently "had to stir up the pot to get something done." School district officials and the contractors now have agreed to put in the 8-inch piping at Cory Elementary School with the possibility of erecting a second fire hydrant there.

Risdon said another session is slated for March 4 on the high school project. They will then decide how to eliminate the stagnant water.

Carr, when informed of Risdon's report, said he was a little disappointed with Risdon's combative style, but felt "it was business as usual for the school district."

Carr hoped the city would become involved on the Cory Elementary School project, so that a 12-inch pipe could be installed on the west side of the street, so that it would aid the city in future development.

When city officials refused to get involved, school district officials decided to install 8-inch lines, the minimum required, according to Carr.

All sides agree that the high school drainage problems must be addressed, Carr said. "I've been in touch with an adjoining property owner who will allow us to use part of his property to cut the seepage," Carr said.

Carr recognized the teamwork on all sides of the school improvement issue, and hopes Risdon's report does nothing to sidetrack that teamwork.

A related concern regarding Romulus High School property will be addressed at a meeting March 4, Risdon said.

The Romulus Community School District has been offered the use of 10 classrooms at Wayne County Community College during the upcoming Junior High School renovation period.

The college is offering to lease the rooms for a maximum cost of $16,000 for the 1992-93 school year.

According to a memorandum from Kenneth J. LaSalle, vice president of administration and finance at the college, the rooms would be available for approximately 180 days between September 1992 and June 1993.

Shriners slate hospital drive

The Moslem Shrine Temple has won approval of members of the city council to conduct its 13th annual hospital fund drive June 12-13.

Shrine Co-chairmen Adam Olweean and Larry Galloway said representatives will pass out free newspapers those days with information about the Shrine Hospital in hopes they will gain public contributions.

The 11-county drive seeks funds annually for the 22 Shrine hospitals, 19 orthopedic hospitals and three burn institutes for children throughout North America.

Shriners provide medical care for children from birth to their 18th birthdays free of charge without regard to the patient's race, religion or national origin.

Battle of the Bulge and Normandy campaigns.

The memorial services, dating back to 1989, will be resumed this year after a one-year break, she said. "We hope to have 1,000 persons there to honor those, who served in the Normandy battles."

Leap Year birthday provides fun for senior citizen

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

It's Ralph Bird's 17th birthday Feb. 29, but don't buy him a New Kids on the Block tape or roller blades. He would probably be happier with a gift more appropriate to his real age—68.

Bird, who as born on Leap Year Day, 1924, can officially observe his birthday only at four-year intervals.

"When I was a kid, I usually celebrated my birthday on the day before or the day after, whichever was most convenient," Bird said. "I've taken a lot of kidding about my birthday. People tell me that I'm not old enough to be a member of the September Days Senior Center group because I'm only 16."

On Bird's 15th birthday, when he turned 60, he received a T-shirt with the words "Leap Year Baby - 15" on it.

"I had a surprise party that year, and a lot of my friends from the Belleville area and Ohio came to celebrate with me. I guess, I could just change the 15 to 17 and wear the T-shirt this year, too," Bird said.

Bird and other September Days members, who were born in February, celebrated their birthdays at a Feb. 10 luncheon at the senior center with Rep. James Kosteva and Van Buren Township Supervisor David Jacobes as special guests.

"I don't know what I'll be doing on the actual day of my birthday. My wife, Arlene, and I like to travel quite a bit, so we may traveling then," Bird said.

Bird retired from Draw-Tite Trailer Hitch Co. one year ago, probably making history as the only 16-year-old retiree in the company.

"I began working there when the business started in 1949, and retired 40 years later. It was a good place to work and close to home," Bird said, who started working the year after his sixth birthday.

Bird turned 9 in 1960 and reached the age of 14 in 1980 when most of his contemporaries were 56.

When Ralph Bird gets ready to blow out the candles on his birthday cake this year, his mother, 91-year-old Violet Bird, will be present to see that her "teenage" son does it right.

Bruce Boyd of Romulus will mark his 20th birthday on Saturday.

But since the calendar lists the date as Feb. 29, 1992, Boyd knows he may receive many "Happy Fifth Birthday" cards from his jocular friends.

Boyd is a 1990 graduate of Romulus High School, where he starred on the school wrestling team.

In his senior year, Boyd won the state wrestling championship in the 135 pound class.

During other years, Boyd said his parents (David and Jackie Boyd) helped him celebrate his birthday on Feb. 28.

But this year, Boyd wants his birthday to be special. "My first choice is to fly to Florida and enjoy the spring break crowd," he said.

Failing that, Boyd said he will rent a room in one of the local hotels and treat himself to a weekend of luxury.

Asked what will be the most important gift he will receive, Boyd smiled and said "just having a happy time."

Cookie sale supports Scouts

Seven flavors of cookies, including new Golden Nut Clusters, will be sold by area Girl Scout troops through March 15.

The new cookies, which are a cluster of caramel and pecans with a maple-flavored coating, join the traditional line-up of cookies sold by the Girl Scouts in past years. The varieties offered are the Trefoil shortbreads, the Chalet Creme lemon-vanilla cookies, Do-Si-dos peanut butter cream cookies, Tagalongs peanut butter patties, Thin Mints chocolate covered wafers and Samoas, vanilla cookies covered with caramel, coconut and striped with cocoa.

Proceeds from the cookie sale will provide half of the financial support needed for the Tomorrow's Power program. The Scout program focuses on growth and development for education and activities for the 28,000 Girl Scouts in the metro Detroit area.

The cookies, priced at $2.50 per box, can be obtained from area Girl Scouts in neighborhood shopping centers, grocery stores and businesses or by calling the Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council at 964-GIRL.

Moving message

Westland resident Bill Ison stands on the corner of Michigan Avenue and Wayne Road making his sentiments regarding the "Buy American" plan clear. "I'm going to protest on every corner until I see an improvement and get people back to work," Ison said last week. Victorian style conservatory is dream of Wayne man

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Feature Editor

Wayne residents and business owners may have seen Chuck Johnson's proposal for a modernized Wayne by now, but those who haven't can view his concept at the Metro Place Mall.

"The pictures of the conservatory are on display at the old army recruiting office in the mall," Johnson said. "I put them there so residents can have a chance to see them at any time."

Johnson has appeared before the Wayne Chamber of Commerce and many other local organizations to promote his plan to convert Wayne into an aesthetic tourist attraction.

"Tourism in Michigan is our second largest industry," Johnson said. "About $16.5 billion dollars. It supports 750,000 people and contributes $750 million dollars in taxes to the state."

He has informed business owners the town center in Wayne has been hurt by malls. In fact, the Westland Mall square-footage area is the third largest in the nation, according to Johnson.

"That includes all of the various malls from Wildwood to Newburgh on both sides of Warren plus the stores on Cowan Road," Johnson said. "But, all small towns in America are going through the same problems that Wayne faces."

Now is the time for Wayne to work with what the community has and what it can offer, according to Johnson.

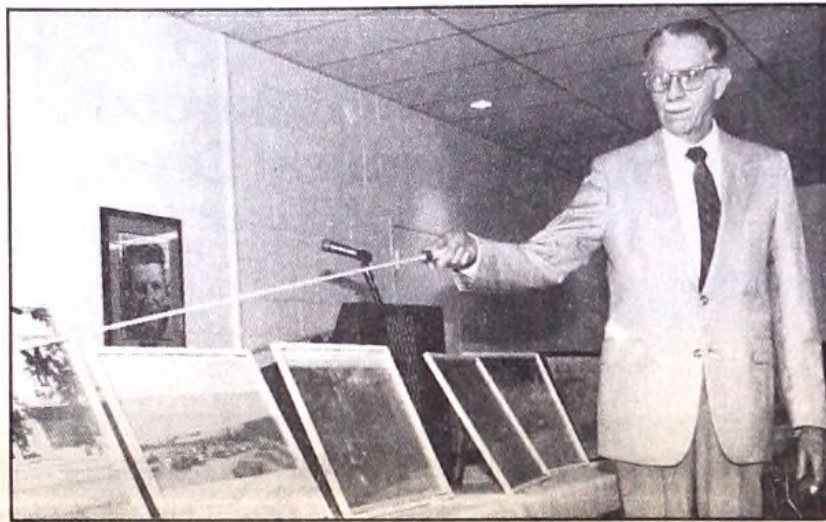

"We have an elliptical town center which is totally unique," Johnson said. "Most village greens are town squares where they have such a thing at all, and most are located in New England. We have a superb oval."

One idea Johnson has to attract more business is to construct a victorian-style botanical conservatory in the center of town where there is 3.5 acres of land available.

"A victorian-style conservatory will be exotically different enough to cause passing strangers to zip into the parking structure and take a stroll through the gardens," Johnson said. "If we can entice them to continue their stroll throughout the town center, they will get hungry and go into restaurants."

Residents who are for or against the conservatory are encouraged to write to The Wayne Eagle, 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne MI 48184. Attention: conservatory story. The opinions will be conglomerated into a special feature.

Conference supports regional transportation

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

Discontinuation of the "SMART" transportation services will have a stinging effect on bus riders, according to members of the 18-community Conference of Western Wayne.

The Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation, which operates the bus service, is facing a $7 million deficit. Plans call for a temporary or permanent shutdown of services by March 31 if a means of funding the SMART services is not found by that date.

Conference of Western Wayne Executive Director Daniel Gilmartin said the regional planning agency is "deeply concerned with the potential discontinuation of services by SMART, and believes that it is of the utmost importance that the southeast Michigan region seek long-term solutions for its regional transportation needs."

The executive director said regional transportation is of vital importance to the overall health of the area which comprises more than 340 square miles and is home to 660,000 people.

The 18-member CWW unanimously adopted a resolution stating that the potential discontinuation of SMART transportation will have a severe negative impact on the region.

Gilmartin said he and the board of directors will offer assistance in working with other governmental entities in any appropriate manner to stabilize the transportation system in the area.

The 18-member CWW unanimously adopted a resolution stating that the potential discontinuation of SMART transportation will have a severe negative impact on the region.

The resolution also rejected the concept of community-by-community funding for transportation services. The CWW strongly favors a regional approach as the only long-term solution to funding such a system.

but these people didn't sob all over the patrolman's clean uniform, I bet.

But Frayer won't let me say thank you or publicize the fact that these are the greatest policemen I've ever met or heard of and to me, their remarkable resemblance to Tom Selleck is more pronounced with each of my possessions they locate and return.

Frayer says that people will think I'm prejudiced just because one of these kind, considerate, intelligent, handsome, wonderful men in blue happens to be my son.

Yeah, maybe. But I've never been as proud of my son or the profession he chose as I was when his co-workers, not knowing our relationship, treated me the way they did. I understand a great deal more now about why my son wanted to be a cop from the time he was 5. And I understand a great deal more about the kind of person it takes to really be a good one. But mostly, I'm proud to think that my son is that kind of man.

Don't tell Frayer I said so, though. He'll think I'm getting sentimental in my old age.

When I get time, I'm going to send a batch of these to work with the officer I know best to demonstrate my thanks.

Oatmeal cinnamon crispies

2 1/2 cup (5 sticks) butter, softened
5 cups sugar
1/3 cup dark molasses
4 eggs
1 1/3 tablespoons baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon ground cinnamon
1 tablespoon vanilla extract
4 1/3 cups all-purpose flour
4 3/4 cups old-fashioned rolled oats (not instant)
2 cups finely chopped pecans

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Grease two baking sheets. In a large mixing bowl, cream the butter. Add the sugar gradually, then the molasses, and beat until the mixture is light and fluffy. Beat in the eggs, one at a time. Shut off the mixer and add the baking powder and soda, salt, cinnamon and vanilla to the batter. Turn the beater back on and blend.

Add the flour and blend. Add the oats and the nuts and blend. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto the baking sheets. Bake for 5 to 9 minutes, or until the cookies are medium brown and a bit crinkly looking. It may be necessary to turn the cookie sheets around in the oven so the cookies will brown evenly. Allow the cookies to set on the sheets for about 3 minutes, then remove to a wire rack and let cool completely. Can be frozen.

My thanks to the men in blue

Don't tell Mike Frayer. Ole' Mike and I have been trading insults for some time now, and since he's been named chief of police in Westland he's getting a little too dignified for me. For instance, he's let me know he has some strong feelings about me fawning all over his officers and publicly singing their praises. But I think it's about time I said thank you.

Actually, the time for gratitude was several weeks ago, but due to the sensitivity of the subject, my expression of appreciation had to wait.

Just before Christmas, three enterprising young Westland men took it upon themselves to do a bit of holiday shopping and mistook our home for a local electronics store. That can be the only plausible explanation, unless these three really are aliens beamed in from the planet Zoofus who think the proper way to enter a home is by throwing a log through the window. You'd think, however, that the shards of shattered glass scattered throughout my home might have been a clue that this entry was less than appropriate.

These unwelcome visitors helped themselves to nearly every electronic device my husband had on the premises. His computer, video camera, tape decks, and a multitude of other items were taken by these three as their rightful due and carted out of our home rather unceremoniously in our absence. Anything they couldn't take, they attempted to destroy. The gene pool was stretched real thin with these three.

These charm school drop-outs also saw fit to take some irreplaceable antique watches which had been in my spouse's family for several generations. My husband was not a happy man.

The patient, kind, gentle, polite and efficient Westland police officers who had to deal with my screaming, hysterical sobbing and ranting are the objects of my gratitude. These guys were terrific.

They were understanding. They were concerned. They were polite. They helped me. They stomped around outside with flashlights searching for my missing cat. They were everything the idealized policeman is supposed to be.

Frayer, of course, says his officers treat everyone this way and this was nothing extraordinary. This man has obviously never seen my reaction to this type of stress. It wasn't pretty.

Frayer also claims that the work Sgt. Dan Pfannes of the detective bureau put into apprehending these creatures was simply routine. Yeah, for him maybe. But when he called to say they had arrested these cretins and found the watches, I thought Sgt. Pfannes would walk on water for an encore.

Incidentally, there are 20 other homes which also looked like shopping malls to these troglodyte misanthropes and the little crooks helped themselves to the possessions and property of these other absent homeowners at will. These victims are undoubtedly as grateful as I am for the work the Westland officers put into this,

How many people know exactly what a quintcentennial is, anyhow?

No matter, any excuse for great Italian food is good enough for most everybody. Actually, this quintcentennial is the 500th anniversary of the voyage of Christopher Columbus. Remember, In 1492, Columbus sailed the ocean blue? Yep, that's him.

Unfortunately the huge celebration planned when replicas of the Nina, the Pinta and the Santa Maria arrived in Florida this year saw fewer than 500 people welcome the intrepid explorers who recreated Columbus' historic voyage.

But nonetheless, Columbus did do diners of today a huge favor when he set in motion the historic exchange of foods between the Old and New Worlds, revolutionizing cuisine as we know it today. Since the Age of Discovery, the convergence of new food items continues to modify diets around the world.

In Columbus' time, the judicious use of leftovers was especially critical at sea. Whatever food was carried on board had to last several months. The ship cook would take leftover food and stuff it into envelopes of pasta to be served at the following meal. This form of pasta was called "rabioli," which is a Genoese dialect word for "things of little value." Today, we call it ravioli.

In the New World, the tomato was initially considered a weed in the Aztec Indian cornfields. European explorers, who found it edible and tasty, brought the tomato with them on their voyages back to the Old World. Columbus taking the tomato back to Italy transformed Italian cooking forever. Along with the tomato, Europeans added potatoes and corn from the Americas to their cuisine.

Meanwhile, the Europeans brought livestock with them to the Americas, adding beef, pork and lamb, as well as milk and cheese, to the relatively meatless diet of the New World.

Abundant in Genoa, where Columbus was born, was basil, which was considered sacred by the devoutly religious. Legend claims that Saint Helena, mother of Emperor Constantine, found the "true Cross" under a patch of basil.

Since the time of Columbus, Italian cooking has become a staple of most American diets. Consider that the average American eats 148 servings of pasta each year. That's a lot of "little strings" which is the literal translation of the word spaghetti.

To celebrate this important quintcentennial, here are a few wonderful recipes for Italian treats presently being served at the Olive Garden restaurants where the anniversary will be celebrated until April 19 with these special treats.

Enjoy.

Shrimp Cristoforo

Ingredients:

1 pound shrimp, shelled, medium size
2 ounces basil leaves, fresh
10 ounces (2 1/2 sticks) butter, softened
1 teaspoon garlic, fresh, chopped
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
3 tablespoons Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon Romano cheese
1 pound linguine or angel hair pasta

Procedure:

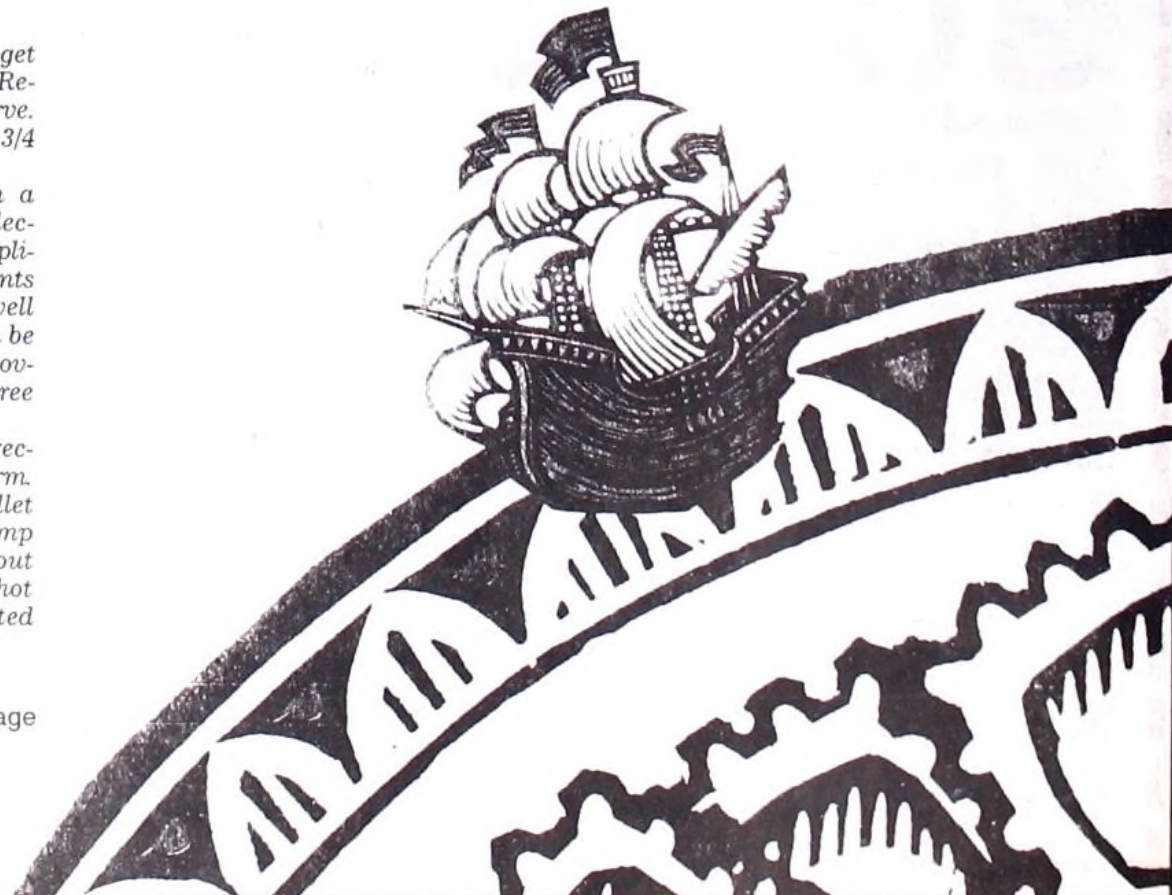

Remove any large stems from basil and wash leaves. Shake off excess water and dry with a paper towel. Place in food processor with blade attachment and process until finely chopped. Process in two batches if necessary to get a uniformly chopped basil. Remove from processor and reserve. Should make approximately 3/4 cup chopped basil.

Place softened butter in a small mixer bowl. Using an electric mixer, whip butter until pliable. Add remaining ingredients including basil and mix until well incorporated. Basil butter can be used immediately or stored covered in the refrigerator for three to four days.

Cook pasta according to directions, drain well and keep warm. Melt basil butter in large skillet over medium heat. Add shrimp and saute just until done, about 2 to 3 minutes. Serve over hot cooked pasta. Pass freshly grated Parmesan cheese.

Wayne captures Wolverine 'A' championship

Zebras are one victory from perfect

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Although they had sewed up the conference title with a stunning victory over Monroe last Tuesday, Wayne Memorial Friday night was forced to fight off a determined Dearborn Fordson before wrapping up its 13th straight Wolverine 'A' victory, 61-60.

Coach Chuck Henry and the Zebras led by about a dozen points going into the final eight minutes against the Tractors, who came back with a 26-point fourth quarter but fell short by one to the newly-crowned champ.

"We almost let this victory get away," said Henry, who returned to Wayne in September after spending last year in Walled Lake. "They (Fordson) just caught fire and we couldn't stop them."

"They" specifically was senior guard Haisam Abadi, who pumped in 11 of his game-high 23 points in the last quarter.

Until Abadi's sterling effort, Wayne appeared to have everything under control. Rick Barnes staked the Zebras to a 19-7 first period lead as he tossed in eight of his 17 points, and with Lee Williams chipping in, Wayne increased its margin to 27-18 at the halfway point.

Fordson, however, refused to quit. The Tractors stayed in the game with a 17-point third period and when the two teams entered the final round, Wayne had a 46-35 lead.

Then came Abadi, who unleashed a volley of baskets that brought the home team and crowd alive. Fordson outscored their visitors 26-16 in the stretch, but never managed to sink the go-ahead basket.

Wayne put two players in double figures, with Barnes' 17 as tops. Williams settled for 12. Abadi collected 19 of his 23 points in the second half. Teammates Ali Khalil and Nathan Gae accounted for 12 and 10 points, respectively.

Wayne actually sewed up the title at Monroe, after beating the Trojans 64-49. The champs had a 31-18 lead at intermission, and never looked back thanks to an outstanding performance by Greg Hartman, who had 19 points. Williams and Dontez Prewitt contributed 11 each to the winner's cause.

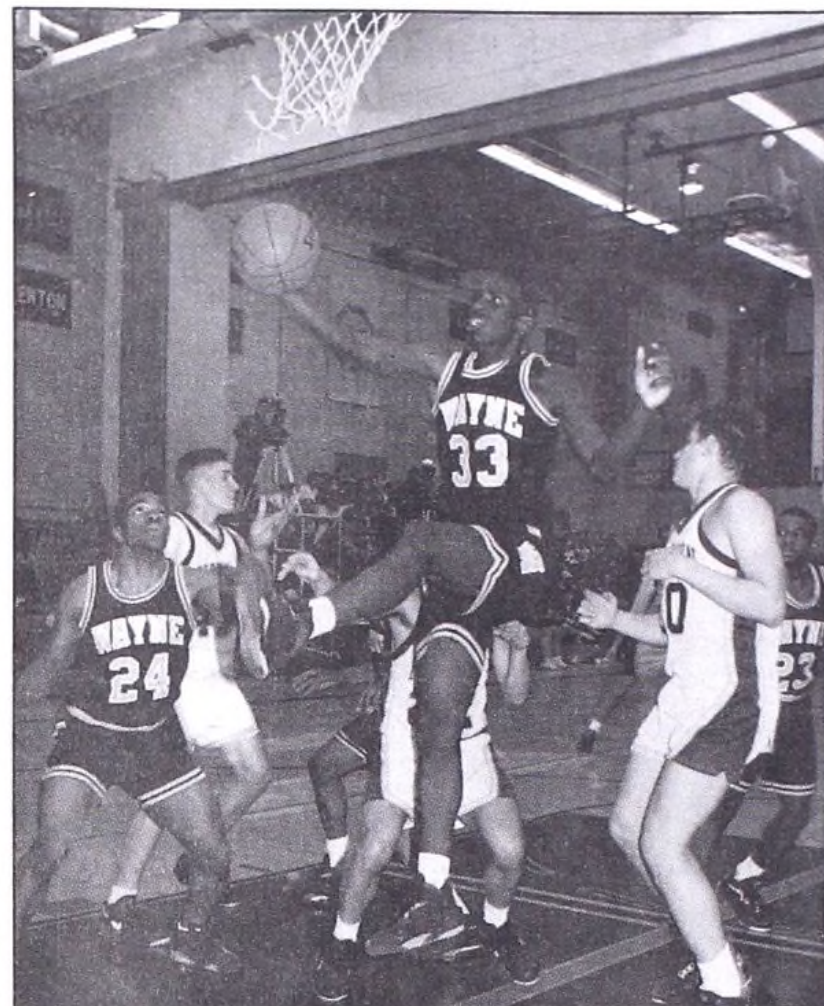

Monroe received 13 points from Jason Butler. Under Henry's guidance, Wayne has now surfaced as the conference champ six out of the past nine years.

"One of our goals this year was to win the conference title," Henry commented. "We have eight seniors in our lineup, and it was important to this team to culminate their careers with the league title."

"We're all very happy about it," Henry added.

If Wayne can stop Southgate Anderson on Friday - and the Zebras are an overwhelming favorite to win - the champs will boast a perfect 14-0 season in the conference.

Wayne will travel to Garden City where teams from Westland John Glenn, Livonia Franklin and Livonia Churchill also are scheduled to meet in the post-season Class A district playoffs.

Rockets ready for cage playoffs

By TERRY LYNCH
ANP Special Writer

Realizing that a victory would clinch a share of the Western Lakes Division basketball championship, Westland John Glenn Rockets soared past division rival, Livonia Stevenson, Friday night to an impressive 75-50 triumph.

That crucial victory put Coach Pat Bennett's cagers at a 9-7 overall record, and a 7-4 conference record. Their 4-1 divisional record is good enough for a three-way tie for first place.

Glenn also is seeded fifth in upcoming conference tournament, which will start on Friday. The following week the Rockets will travel to Garden City to battle for a Class A District playoff title. The district also includes teams from rival Wayne Memorial, Livonia Franklin and Churchill.

Glenn finished the divisional race tied for first with Plymouth Salem and Walled Lake Central.

"The guys knew that the divisional title was at stake and they wouldn't let Stevenson even stay close," Bennett remarked.

After nailing three treys in the first half, the Rockets built up a 41-22 lead and coasted to victory after the intermission.

Everyone had a chance to contribute to the victory. There were four Rocket players who reached double figures.

Leading all scorers was center Ken Taylor who scored 18. Taylor started in place of regular center Kevin Tomaszewski, who was sidelined because of an injury.

Taylor got plenty of help from forward John Miller, who contributed 17 points. Backcourt whiz Micah Orr added 16 and Aaron Scheffer finished with 10.

Stevenson guard Matt Grodzicki led the losers with 16 points. In earlier action, the Rockets repealed Walled Lake Western, 68-49.

In this contest, it was Western that had the long-shot touch, popping four three-pointers in the first half, but Glenn still managed to come out ahead for the half, 34-26.

Vikings make champs sweat

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Unheralded Inkster took undefeated Highland Park right down to the wire before yielding a 64-59 decision to the newly-crowned Suburban Athletic Conference basketball champ.

It was the Parkers' ninth straight conference win, and the victory all but sealed the coveted league crown for the Class A powerhouse. The loss dipped the Inkster league record to 5-5. They are 7-9 overall.

"Our kids are coming around," said Inkster coach Spencer Grant. "We came out shaky in the first period and that didn't help any. But, after we settled down, it was a good game."

Highland Park grabbed a 21-15 lead on the strength of center Colin Foster's muscles under the board. The senior pivotman sank seven of his eight points in the opening period to get the Parkers off to an excellent start.

The Vikings stayed alive

Carlos Johnson, Inkster 23, goes unchallenged to the basket. The Viking sharpshooter has been scoring in double digits in the stretch and could be the key to Coach Spencer Grant's playoff hopes. ANP photo by Larry Divizio thanks to Jerry Jordan, James Outlaw and Carlson Johnson, who each found the nets for four points. After the initial half, the Vikings trailed 39-30. They made their move in the third period.

Johnson came up with three points and Al White sank four to help cut the Vikings' deficit to a pair of baskets (49-45).

However, Highland Park managed to maintain its shaky position with a 16-15 edge in the final quarter.

Swimmers seek conference gold

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Seven area high school teams will converge upon Wayne Memorial today in search of gold medals and the Wolverine 'A' Conference swimming and diving championships.

Monroe, the defending champ and an overwhelming favorite to repeat, takes a perfect 7-0 dual meet record and a state-ranking into the competitions.

The conference preliminaries were staged yesterday. The prelims for the swimming and diving events are scheduled for 5:30 p.m. today, while the titles in all 12 events will be decided beginning at 6 p.m. on Friday.

"I just don't see anyone touching Monroe this year," said Belleville coach Frank Vicchy, who pointed out that the champ has defeated its rivals "by 40 or more points this year."

Along with Monroe, Belleville, and Wayne, other teams seeking medals include Wyandotte, Lincoln Park, Southgate Anderson, Trenton and Dearborn Fordson.

In the meantime, Wyandotte stunned Belleville 108-80 in their final dual meet of the year.

"I was very disappointed in our kids," Vicchy said. "I felt we could have swam better. But we didn't."

Belleville received a double win from Ken Tolliver, who won the 200-yard and the 500-yard freestyle events. Tolliver turned in a 2:01.4 for the 200, and touched the wall for the 500 in 5:32.8. Both are excellent times.

Other Belleville winners included Mike Loria, who was first for the 100-yard butterfly (1:01.6) and Brent Held, who was clocked in 53.6 in the 100-yard freestyle.

The Tigers also managed to salvage one of the three relays, winning the 200-yard freestyle in 1:42.0 with Tom Filar, Phil Bongonio, Tolliver and Devin Townsend.

The loss left Belleville with a 4-3 conference record for the 1991-92 campaign.

In other local swim action, Westland John Glenn was dunked by Farmington as Coach Ron Staples' Rockets failed to win an event. Rocket sophomore Jon Ramesbottom turned in his best time for the backstroke, finishing the event in 1:06.71. However, that was the third-best effort for the event.

Regionals next Belleville claims district mat crown

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A suspension of one of their premier wrestlers costs Belleville their Wolverine 'A' Conference crown a couple of weeks ago.

Last Wednesday, Tiger Coach Gerald Malecek and his grapplers returned to the mats with vengeance.

Belleville destroyed natural rival, Ypsilanti, 42-25, in the final round of the team championships to retain the Class A district title.

Earlier in the afternoon, the Tigers wrestled past an always tough Plymouth Salem, 40-30, to qualify for the title bout.

"I was disappointed when we lost the league title," stressed Malecek, whose team had cleared the dual meet season with an impeccable 7-0 record and needed to finish second or better to retain the conference crown.

However, a suspension to Stephen Davis, the then undefeated 135-pound senior, left a huge void in the Tiger lineup. They finished fourth at the conference meet and out of the money.

Last Wednesday, with Davis back in the lineup, the Tigers left little room for speculation on which team was the best in the district.

"The kids got the job done," said Malecek. "I am proud of them. They know that there's no tomorrow if we lose."

Last night, Belleville was scheduled to meet Novi in the first-round of the regionals at Plymouth-Salem. The winner is slated to wrestle the winner of the Brighton-Livonia Franklin match for the regional title.

Brighton, a state-ranked team, is favored to win the regional.

In the meantime, the Tigers managed to qualify four wrestlers for the Class A regional individual championships. (The state conducts team as well as individual championships in the sport).

Davis suffered his first setback of the 1991-92 campaign when he settled for a silver at the district. The state finalist lost to Todd Hicks of Bedford Temperance via a 3:38 fall.

Hicks also won a silver last year at state.

"I must admit that I was disappointed that Davis didn't win," Malecek said. "However, I know he will come back."

Belleville also qualified Mike Komaromi, who finished second in the 171-pound class; Bill Yuhas (145) and Fred Garcia (152). Yuhas and Garcia finished fourth in their respective weight classes.

The regionals for the individual championships will also be waged at Plymouth Salem on Saturday.

Movie fans try hand at predictions

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

For the next month, film fans will be naming their own choices for the 1992 Oscars.

After the Academy Award committee released the names of nominees on Wednesday, avid movie-goers began to mull through the past performances of the Oscar nominees to predict the winners before the academy presents trophies to their choices.

Named to the top Oscar categories were:

• Best Picture: Beauty and the Beast, Bugsy, JFK, The Price of Tides, The Silence of the Lambs.

• Best Actor: Warren Beatty, Robert DeNiro, Anthony Hopkins, Nick Nolte, Robin Williams.

• Best Actress: Geena Davis, Laura Dern, Jodie Foster, Bette Midler, Susan Sarandon.

• Best Supporting Actor: Tommy Lee Jones, Harvey Keitel, Ben Kingsley, Michael Lerner, Jack Palance.

• Best Supporting Actress: Diane Ladd, Juliette Lewis, Kate Nelligan, Mercedes Ruehl, Jessica Tandy.

• Best Director: John Singleton, Barry Levinson, Oliver Stone, Jonathan Demme, Ridley Scott.

Other categories are for best original screenplay, adapted screenplay, foreign film, art direction, cinematography, costume design, documentary feature, documentary short subject, film editing, makeup, music original score, music original song, animated short film, live action short film, sound, sound effects editing and visual effects.

Among the films reviewed in Associated Newspapers, our staff gives a "thumbs up" to The Silence of the Lambs as best film and Robert DeNiro as best actor for his chilling role in Cape Fear. Jodie Foster's role in The Silence of the Lambs received a nod, as did the pair of Thelma & Louise stars, Geena Davis and Susan Sarandon. Our choices for best supporting actor and actress are any of the nominees other than Jack Palance, who portrayed the aging cowboy in City Slickers, and Jessica Tandy, the queen mother of actresses, for her role in Fried Green Tomatoes.

Best director honors should go to either Barry Levinson for Bugsy or Jonathan Demme for Silence of the Lambs.

Although Beauty and the Beast gained an "A" rating from our reviewer, nonetheless, we do not believe an animated film - no matter how well crafted - should be considered on an equal basis with motion pictures.

After listing our predictions, our staff admits that their guesses are no better than the predictions of other film fans. Therefore, we are inviting readers to submit their predictions for the best picture, actor, actress, supporting actor and actress and director to Oscar Contest, Associated Newspapers, P.O. Box 578, Wayne, Mich. 48184. Entries must be postmarked by March 25.

The reader who makes the most correct predictions will receive a dozen movie passes so that he or she will be able to view the new series of films and evaluate the potential Oscar nominees for next year.

In the event that more than one person correctly predicts the six top winners, a random drawing of the winning entries will determine the prize winner.

Quick change Dealer offers oil change service

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Feature Editor

What's the best way to extend the life of your car or truck? Get an oil change.

That's the message Jack Demmer Ford is sending to residents in the western Wayne County area. A new Motor Craft Fast Lube service is being offered by Jack Demmer.

The goal is provide local residents with the fastest and most efficient oil change service, according to Larry Puz, service manager for Jack Demmer Ford.

"This is a 20-to-25 minute oil change," Puz said. "Anyone interested can either make an appointment or just come in."

The Motor Craft Fast Lube job includes the following: oil change with up to five quarts of Motorcraft quality oil, new original equipment- Motorcraft long-life filter, complete chassis lube, inspect air filter, check power steering fluid, check transmission fluid, check brake fluid, check windshield-washer fluid, check windshield-wiper blades for wear, check air pressure in tires, visual inspection of battery, visual inspection and check for outstanding vehicle recalls.

Additional items include replacing air filters and wiper blades. Puz recommends an oil change every 3,000 to 4,000 miles.

"They will save money in the long run by getting an oil change," Puz said. "It's important especially in Michigan where the climate changes so often."

Cost for the Motor Craft Lube service is $19.95 for cars and $21.95 for light trucks and vans.

48 gas stations face fraud charges

Forty-eight gasoline stations in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Washtenaw counties face charges for allegedly cheating customers at the pumps.

Lawsuits, filed by the state, claim that the stations charged different prices for the same grade of gasoline, falsely labeled octane levels on the pumps and/or sold gas from dirty or water-filled tanks. Civil penalties for the violations could total up to $10,000 daily, according to state Attorney General Frank Kelley.

The lawsuits are the result of 186 consumer complaints filed since March, 1991, and the subsequent investigation of those charges.

The majority of the gas stations cited by the state investigators are in Detroit. Western Wayne County gasoline stations, which have been charged with the alleged gas-pump cheating are A&K Gas, Ecorse Road, Belleville; Russell No. 4, Main Street, Belleville; Nada Gas, Van Born Road, Romulus; R&Y Petro, Wayne Road, Romulus; A&M Mini Mart, North Inkster Road, Westland; Grubor Petroleum, Inc., West Warren, Westland, and Joe's Mini Mart Inc., Michigan Avenue, Inkster.

In a Feb. 21 news conference, announcing the crack-down on gasoline pump cheating, Gov. John Engler noted that there are 6,000 gasoline stations in the state, and less than one percent of those businesses have been charged with alleged wrongdoings.

Lynn sets 2 sprint records

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Last year, 14-year-old Char-nell Lynn proved she is one of the finest young sprinters in Michigan.

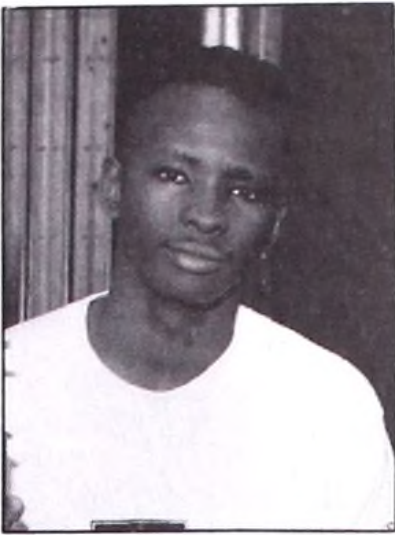

Last week, the outstanding Inkster High freshman proved she can handle international competition as well.

Lynn won three gold medals at the Canadian Youth Track and Field Indoor Championships, staged at the University of Windsor in Ontario. Her performances also earned for her the title of the best All-Around Athlete at the Invitational.

After winning her first gold in the 60-meter run, the petite track star came back and established new bests in her age group for Canada in the 200-meter dash (26 seconds flat) and the 400-meter dash (59.2).

"Charnell continues to improve," said Inkster Track Club coach Keith Bailey. "This young lady will own a lot of records before she brings the curtains down on her high school career."

There were more than 60 athletes entered in the 14-year-old division, and they represented many sections of Canada and the United States.

Inkster also left an impression in the senior division where 17-year-old A. Chip Brown won a gold medal in the long jump for his leap of 21 feet, 10 inches. Brown also finished with a silver for his efforts in the hurdles and came back to place in the 800-meters (54.1). He placed sixth in the 200-meters (23.5).

The Inkster runners also came away with a pair of medals in the long jump and the 200-meter dash thanks to Latresah Dicks, a 14-year-old Blanchette Middle School student. Competing against 45 athletes, Latresah finished second in the long jump (14 feet, 5) and placed fifth in the 200-meters (28.8).

Kwamica Hudson won the 60-meter hurdles event in the 17-year-old division. She was clocked in 10.9.

Marcos Harris, a senior at Inkster High, placed fourth in the long jump competition (19 feet) and was fifth in the 60-meter dash (7.4), while Kira Oliver, a 12-year-old, won four medals. She placed second in the long jump (13 feet, 9 inches) and was also runnerup in the 60-yard competition (8.5). Oliver also finished third in the 200-meters (29.3) and fifth in the 400-meters (73.4).

Inkster took a 10-athlete delegation to Windsor and six of them returned with medals, Keith said.

In the Ypsilanti match, Belleville produced nine victors: Tom O'Kelley (112), John Ratliff (125), Darren Hamilton (130), Steven Davis (135), Billy Yuhas (145), Fred Garcia (152), Jeremy Amrhein (160) and Mike Komaromi (171).

Then, on Saturday, the Tigers had to struggle to come up with four regional qualifiers and Davis sustained his first setback on what was an impeccable record.

The previously undefeated Davis ran up against a determined Todd Hicks of Bedford, who cut Davis' win streak.

Komaromi lost the district gold to Southgate Anderson Ken Johnson, who was awarded a 4-2 victory over the Belleville grappler. Garcia fell to Ken Keating of Southgate in the consolation round, 9-6, and Yuhas also finished fourth when he came out on the shortend of a 9-3 decision with Troy Kuhn also of Southgate.

Vikings

ties compared to five of eight Inkster offerings.

"The difference in this game, I feel," said Grant, "was that we committed 18 turnovers and didn't get many opportunities at the foul line."

Johnson led the Vikings' scorers with 14 points. Teammates Jordan and Outlaw finished with 14 and 12 points. White, "double and sometimes triple-teamed" by the Parkers, managed to dump in 11 points, haul down 16 rebounds while blocking three shots.

Simmons, a senior guard, had 16 for Highland Park. Keith Gilmore and Vincent Madison each had 11.

Inkster took its frustrations out on St. Mary of Redford earlier in the week. The Vikings buried their out-of-conference rivals, 91-61, as White drilled 18 points and nailed 17 rebounds in the rout. Outlaw chipped in 17 points and also had 14 rebounds, while Johnson and Jordan had 14 and 10 points.

Rockets

The Rockets applied defensive pressure after the break and outscored the Vikings 16-10 in the third period to take control of their destiny.

Offensively, the Rockets were paced by Miller, who popped in 16 points. Senior guard Kevin Champion added 14 while Scheffer counted 12 points.

Walled Lake got 16 points from Brent Mackowiak.

More Detroit suburban car buyers

If your business has anything to do with cars or trucks, this is the best possible place for your ads to appear.

Because this is one of the fifty SPRING Newspapers.

And the SPRING Newspapers' circulation more than doubles the daily suburban circulation of either The Detroit News or Free Press.

In fact, SPRING's suburban circulation is greater than the two metro dailies' combined.

And that's not all.

According to the 1991 Belden newspaper readership study, SPRING reaches more of the affluent suburban shoppers who have more to spend—and who spend more.

► 44,500 more purchasers of new vehicles than The News (21,900 more than the Free Press).

► 53,900 more purchasers of used vehicles than The News (23,100 more than the Free Press).

► 52,500 more households with three or more vehicles than The News (and 5,700 more than the Free Press).

Not to mention more purchasers of tires, batteries, and accessories, more boat owners, and more owners of expensive homes . . .

Simply put, one order in SPRING delivers more.

Shouldn't you advertise in SPRING more?
